course, has not yet washed himself, and such an unclean one, 758 neǧes, would make the wound still worse, mustaṛfer: The visitor 831 salutes with the words: "May thy evil disappear! jizûl šarrak." Or: "May it disappear and not come over thee any more! jizûl w-lâ jiǧîk." To avoid informing the patient that he looks ill, [576] and thus frightening him, the visitor says: "It seems to me thou hast a healthy color, perhaps nothing ails thee," the patient's reply usually being: "By Allâh himself, nothing is the matter with me, merely so and so."

If the patient gets worse, nobody must mourn. "We have 761 a soul, and he has a soul obeying Allâh. Ma'ana nesem w-ma'eh nesem taḥat allâh." The patient gets worse every Wednes- 777 day and Friday, for these are the heavy days, jowm aṭ-ṭaḳîl, for him. Likewise every sixth, sixteenth, and twenty-first day of the lunar month aggravates the condition of the patient and spreads the news of his illness, mubajjeḥ al-ḫabar.

A demoniac is called mḥarfal. As such they consider the 732● imbecile, the demented, and the insane. If he does not get well soon, he is fettered and allowed to perish of thirst.

If a mad dog, čalb mṛalṭ, bites, ji'azz, a man, sulphur 752 is applied to the wound, which is then burned with a red-hot 758 nail. After forty days the injured person generally is stricken with rabies. Then they fetter him and throw hot ashes on his head until he dies.

In the case of a snake bite the soothsayer, ḳarrâj, is sent 752 for and cures the bitten man with his spittle. The ḳarrâj 755 learns this art from a member of the Rifâ'ijje Order at an-Nuḳra in the neighborhood of Damascus, paying one quarter of a meǧidijje (22.5 cents) for tuition. No snake can harm a ḳarrâj.

Bites of scorpions and poisonous spiders are cured by wrapping the wounded limb in a raw skin or by laying the patient in an oblong pithole, the bottom of which is covered with camel manure thrown over camel urine, 'abas al-bel. Then, covering the patient up to his head with clay or sand, they build a small fire at his side to make him sweat thoroughly. But to prevent him from falling asleep they shout at him: "O thou who has been bitten by an 'ankabût spider, wilt thou live or wilt thou die?" He must answer: "I shall live, I shall live, not die."

A person seriously ill appoints a guardian for his young 763 children with the words: "O So-and-So, I do not know what 429
